

New Library Extension Planned for Spring

Plans for a new addition to the Carlson Library have been announced by Pres. James H. Halsey at the fall meeting of the Board of Trustees recently. The building will be made possible by a new grant from the Carlson Foundation.

William and Philip Carlson, founders of the foundation, made the original gift for the present building in 1956.

Construction of the new wing is expected to begin in the spring. Fred Carstensen, chairman of the trustees' building and grounds committee stated that the new facilities should be available to students early next fall.

The Carlson brothers have made substantial contributions to the University. In 1949, they contributed money to furnish and equip the lecture hall in the Engineering-Technology Building. They have also given money for scholarships.

The library now holds 100,000 volumes in an open-stack system. With the addition, the space and capacity will be doubled.

The present building has a frontage on Park place of 123 feet with a depth of 70 feet on Park avenue. When it is completed, the total frontage will be 223 feet, with the same depth.

Bishop hall, now adjoining the library, will be torn down to make room for the new structure.

The addition to the library will be architecturally integrated into the present two-story structure Dr. Henry W. Littlefield said. The same conservative contemporary styling of yellow Roman shaped brick and Vermont marble found in the original building will be carried on to the addition.

An outstanding feature will be a lecture and exhibit center for 400 people. The center will also be used for music recitals, art and industrial design exhibits, and display of Lincoln memorabilia. It will also be used as a reading room.

The second floor will be devoted to an expanded open-stack system. However, an informal reading area will be added.

The Lincoln room, used as an exhibit area, will be converted into a bibliographical and index room.

The main entrance of the Library will remain. Additional smaller entrances will be on the Myrtle Avenue side and on Park Place.

Unique Murals Go Unnoticed In UB Library

Chances are, you fail to notice a set of impressive murals when you enter the lobby of Carlson Library.

These unique murals, illustrate the major events in Bridgeport's history and emphasize the University and its library as one of the city's great milestones. The murals were painted by Senor Hipolito Hidalgo de Caviedes, an artist who has received international recognition for his murals in Spain, Portugal, Cuba and South America.

The first scene depicts the figure of Roger Ludlowe, who settled Pequonock (today Bridgeport) in 1604. Another picture shows Elias Howe at work with his famous sewing machine, and is contrasted by today's modern industry.

Assembled on the wall is the first public school, the first newspaper and the first public library system of the city. Also depicted is the impact of the first theatre in Bridgeport, with a scene from an early drama. The only living figure in the murals depicts Dr. E. Everett Cortright, a founder and first president of the University. He is portrayed (continued on page five)

THE CARLSON LIBRARY will be doubled in size as the result of a substantial grant from the Carlson Foundation, Inc. Construction of the extension will begin in the spring, with the completion date projected for September 1960. Capacity of the enlarged structure will exceed 200,000 volumes.

Industry Research Projects Are New Engineer Curriculum

Research project work is a new curriculum innovation in the College of Engineering.

The work is paid for by various companies in the Bridgeport area who want a study made. Recently Sikorsky Aircraft asked that a study be made on the friction of steel rollers. Engineering students did the job.

Juniors and seniors now have projects for Singer Manufacturing, Bridgeport Brass, and Remington Arms.

Dean Willard P. Berggren, says that such work not only helps instruction but also allows the staff to specialize in more individual fields.

The engineering college has expanded rapidly in recent years. Dean Berggren says there are 300 day students this year compared to 100 day students around six years ago.

In 1954 there were 20 graduates from the day program. This year there will be from 50 to 60 graduating. Six hundred students are taking night courses in engineering. Only about 200 of these are working for a degree. In the past few years the average number of graduates in the night program was five to six.

The B.S. degree in engineering has been offered since 1950. Graduate courses are also offered now, but no definite program has been set up for the Master's degree.

Recent additions to the college staff are: Robert L. Morrow, professor in industrial engineering; Peter Van Buren, associate professor in industrial engineering; Harold Lown, associate professor in mechanical engineering; and Leslie Bird, instructor in electrical engineering.

Seaside Hall Prowler Ordered Out of Town

Raymond Unsworth 23, admitted prowler at Seaside Hall on November 25, was ordered to "get out of Bridgeport and stay out" after Judge Thomas Barret nolleed a charge of breach of the peace. The charge was dismissed because of the lack of sufficient evidence. It can be renewed if he should return to town.

The prowler employed at the Social Security Bureau in Bridgeport, was not involved in the earlier incident at Ingleside Hall police reported.

Ianniello Prexy of Frosh Class

The Student Council has recently announced the results of the elections for freshman representatives.

Daniel Ianniello, an engineering major, is the new president of the class. Also elected were: William Pivarnik, vice president, majoring in engineering; Howard Kalinsky, secretary, treasurer, majoring in economics.

Also Gerry Galat, first alternate, majoring in liberal arts; and Robert Korn, second alternate, majoring in business administration.

These newly elected representatives took office last Wednesday, during the weekly Council session.

City Merchants Hire 40 UBites For Season Rush

During the Christmas rush department stores in Bridgeport will increase their employee force with students from the University. This year some 40 students have part-time jobs for this period.

Mrs. Stelle Rozbicki, assistant to Frank Wright in the Student Placement Office, said that the personnel offices of the various places where students are working have reported that they "are very pleased with their new help."

There are no more jobs openings for Christmas at the moment she said. However, she added, there are other jobs available both part-time and full time ones for the graduating students.

Some of the part-time jobs include tutoring grade school subjects by capable students who wish to gain some experience.

Secretaries, both legal and medical are in great demand on a full time basis, she said.

Almost every Wednesday since October some company representative has come to the University to speak to the graduating students. They have come from Bridgeport, Norwalk, Holyoke, Mass., Alabama, California and many other places.

A lot of students seem to want jobs outside the state itself, but many, Frank Wright, placement director, said, are going only short distances away. Many have taken jobs in places like Boston and Philadelphia and New York City.

There seems to be a general trend in company policy to be more selective in their hiring, Mrs. Rozbicki reports. Employers often refrain from giving the placement office a salary range offered by the company because they want to interview the prospective employee first and give the salary according to his or her merit, she reports. She noted that there are several opportunities for summer jobs available.

Snowflake Queen

FIRSTEST WITH THE MOSTEST is pretty Joan Antonello who was crowned Snowflake Queen at the annual Winter Formal held last Friday night at the Ritz Ballroom. Joan won the laurels while competing with six other contestants who were vying for the coveted title.

Scribe Gets Kennedy Center Award

During the Winter Formal held last Friday evening at the Ritz Ballroom, Stanley Meyers, executive director of the Kennedy Center, presented a citation to the Scribe for outstanding services to the parents and friends of the mentally retarded children.

The Scribe has been sponsoring a fund drive every Christmas for the past four years, donating over $1,000 to the Kennedy Center in this short span.

This year's recipient for the largest single group contribution to the Scribe sponsored fund was Circle K, who will receive an award from the Scribe for their effort.

A total of $150.00 was collected by PDR and SOS who jointly conducted the fund raising campaign. According to officials of both these organizations, more contributions are still expected.

REFUND DEADLINE

The deadline for the acceptance deposit refund is January 5. Those students not returning for the spring semester are urged by the Office of Student Personnel to give notice immediately.

Fraternity Heads Advocate Abolishing Hazing System

About 1,500 delegates attended the conference, representing

The resolution and undergraduate leaders "believe hazing to be detrimental to the best interests of the pledges and inconsistent with the unselfish ideals of fraternities," and urged its abolition as soon as practical.

YALE UNIVERSITY — An experimental program at Yale, where top graduates get a chance at teaching, has proven a success. Under the Carnegie Teaching Fellowship Program, eight "rookies" get $3750 to try their hand in the teaching field.

$1,000 Scholarship Club Enacted

Thirty members of the Board of Associates of the University have pledged $1,000 each to inaugurate an endowment fund.

Income from the fund to be used for student scholarship assistance and to assist the University on the academic-teaching level, according to Dr. George A. Buckhout, board president.

The $1,000 contributions will create a permanent Board of Associates endowment fund at the University, Dr. Buckhout said. Each of the 110 members of the board of associates who contribute $1,000 to the fund will receive life membership on the board.

"A total of 61 University students have received a total of $12,380 in financial assistance under the board of associate's scholarship program which was inaugurated in 1953," Dr. Buckhout observed. Funds have been raised on an annual basis, however. Establishment of a permanent endowment will guarantee annual scholarship assistance to University students indefinitely.

James H. Halsey, president of the University expressed pleasure with the program and commended the associates for their large initial response.

"Scholarships are a vital force in the educational program of a private university," Mr. Halsey said. "All too often outstanding students drop out of college simply because of financial pressures. Many needy students will receive assistance under this program and you may be certain that they are the ones who will be most grateful."

Collegiate Costs And Enrollments At Highest Peak

Enrollments and tuition in public colleges and universities were at an all time high in 1959, reports the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and State Universities.

Sixty schools reported an enrollment increase of nearly five per cent over last year, and foresee a continuation of the trend in years to come.

Thirty of the sixty schools have increased their annual fees and tuition. The average raise was from $211 to $299 for resident state students, and from $475 to $504 for out of state students. Although the University's enrollment increased nine per cent in 1959, tuition remained below the national average.

Eighteen out of sixty schools have reported a raise in their admission standards for this year. Many universities have had to turn down qualified applicants due to inadequate facilities.

The University rejected 37 per cent of their applicants this past fall. Pennsylvania State University rejected 3,500 qualified applicants for lack of housing, staff and facilities. Massachusetts Institute of Technology turned down 1,660 for the same reason. The University of Puerto Rico denied admission to 5,400, and the University of Maryland refused between 500 and 700 out of state students, both for lack of facilities.

A major problem confronting many of the colleges and universities today is the need for adequate financing. Many schools are faced with low faculty salaries, a lack of academic staff and facilities and shortages of housing, classrooms, laboratories, and lab equipment.

Record Number of Students To Matriculate in Hawaii

A record number of Mainland students are expected to visit Honolulu and the tropic islands of our fiftieth state next summer for study and vacation fun, according to Dr. Robert E. Cralle, director, University Study Tour to Hawaii.

Students from all 48 Mainland states will join scholars from the Orient, Middle East and Europe during the 1960 Session, he reports. The hundreds of courses offered by the University of Hawaii's distinguished visiting faculty are highlighted by many subjects taught neither in America or Europe.

In addition an outstanding summer program is planned by the University of Hawaii and Program Directors of the University Study Tour. These include: dinner dances; luncheons; island trips; beach parties; fashion shows; outrigger and catamaran rides. Free bus service is also provided.

Special student rates begin as low as $495.00 for the six-week program, including travel to the Islands via ship or air. (Jets are also available). Reservations for steamship space, he advised, must be made early in the year. Hotel and campus dormitory accommodations are available, both within minutes of the world famed Waikiki Beach.

Five Apply for CISL Chairmanships

Five members of the University's delegation to next Spring's Connecticut Interstate Legislature have applied for chairmanships in the House of Representatives. The candidates were tested on their knowledge of parliamentary procedure, and legislative and committee procedure at Yale University on December 2.

Louise Curtis, Maryann Minutola, Frank Mizak, Mike Wargo and Ed Fernandez appeared before the committee at that time.

Representatives of 20 colleges and universities appeared before the Executive Selection Committee.

Yale University, Fairfield University, Quinnipiac College, Wilimantic State and Danbury State were represented.

Already on the agenda for the Hartford meeting are the Danbury bills: one concerned prohibiting hospital workers from striking and the other requiring the chairman of the State Board of Education to be an educator appointed by the Governor.

Li'l Abner Coming to Local Movies

The first time Al Capp, creator of the cartoon strip, "Li'l Abner," saw beautiful Leslie Parrish, he said: "She is Daisy Mae! The resemblance is astounding." And there is no doubt that followers of his cartoon strip will agree with him when they see the Panama-Frank big screen Technicolor production beginning at the Warner and Merritt Theatres.

Leslie appears opposite Peter Palmer, who has the title role in the Paramount picturization of the sensational Broadway musical comedy hit. The lovely blonde was raised in what sounds like a suburb of Dogpatch, the mythical and "most unnecessary" spot in the U.S.A., imaginative setting for the hilarious story told in "Li'l Abner."

Miss Parrish's original goal was to become a concert pianist, but she became a model instead. Her photo was seen by N.B.C. officials and they signed her as the girl who promoted their colorcasts. This brought her to the attention of Darryl Zanuck and she was signed to a contract, which, unfortunately, didn't lead to the career she had hoped for. Just when she was on the verge of giving up acting, however, the Daisy Mae role came along, and the young actress is hopeful that "Li'l Abner" will launch her into the big-star time.

The painting inside the entrance to the library displays clouds which take the form of hands reaching toward a giant seal of the University. Vice-Pres. Henry W. Littlefield's hands were reportedly used as a model for this mural. The hands take on volume, size, and strength as they arrive at the seal, representing the growing mutual effort of cultural, civic, social and business forces to build a university.

Although modern colonial design which was adopted for the University buildings, as evident in the library, variety is achieved by the use of Roman type bricks of pastel shades of yellow and brown. The central facade of white Vermont marble provides an aesthetic quality becoming a library.

The evolution of the University Library from a few hundred volumes located in one room on the old Fairfield Avenue Campus to the present 100,000 volumes begins with its two founders, William and Philip Carlson.

The Carlsons came to Bridgeport from Poland in 1907. They established their own company—the Metropolitan Carriage Co.—which grew into one of Bridgeport's leading industrial establishments. The business was later sold to International Harvester.

In 1948, the Carlson brothers established the Foundation, which presented a $200,000 gift to the University for the library building.

6 Knights Down Fairleigh, L. I. U., 102-87, 117-102

by Edmund Wolff

The University "Knights" gained their second and third wins of the season by defeating Fairleigh Dickinson University and Long Island University by scores of 102-87 and 117-102 respectively, last week in the UB Gym.

Before a roaring crowd of over 1500, the hoopsters took an early lead over a highly rated Fairleigh team and were never headed. Five UB players registered double figures with "Big" Ed Wysocki setting the pace with a fine 22 point performance. He received excellent support from Don Feeley and Soph Dan Morello who each contributed 18 points and from co-captain Bob Laemel and soph. Joe Yasinski who found the range for 16 each.

After the trading of baskets early in the game, UB forged ahead midway in the first half when Morello and Feeley teamed up to score seven straight baskets to give the Purple Knights a 25-18 lead that they never relinquished. The "Glinesmen" lead 54-34 at the half.

Don Feeley rated as one of the finest players to wear the purple and white in many seasons thrilled the crowd with his fine ball-handling and great playmaking, not to mention his shooting.

Coach Glines suffered the loss of one of his top rebounders when co-captain Joe Colello was forced out with a leg injury.

Paced by the 34 points of soph. Joe Yasinski, UB conquered L. I. U., to win its second straight Tri-State League game. Joe put on a great show as he deposited 12 points in four minutes to give UB a 50-43 halftime lead, which the Purple Knights never relinquished.

Six men scored in double figures for UB in the L.I.U. encounter. Behind Yasinski's 34, Wysocki had 21, Laemel 16, Lazar

15, and Danny Morello 13.

FOUL LINE

The last three games certainly have been team efforts. . . . At least five men have scored in double figures. . . . The two sophomores, Joe Yasinski and Danny Morello have shown great potential for this year and the future. . . . The Knights have been making the opposition play their brand of ball, and so far it has payed off. . . . The all court press from the start has been very effective especially the way Feeley and Laemel have been stealing passes, and ball-hawking. . . . The hustle has been great and shows no signs of letting up. . . . Our rebounding is very strong thanks to Wysocki, Yasinski, Colello, Lazar and the rest of the running club. . . . As I stated earlier this season, UB will win many more games than is expected of them. . . . Fairleigh Dickinson beat C.C.N.Y. this week-end, we beat Fairleigh therefore we could beat City College. . . . This Saturday night we play Brooklyn College at their home court. It should be a great game, and there is no reason why many of us can not be there to cheer UB on to another victory. . . . The Brooklyn College game is a Tri-State league game, a win there would give us a three and zero record in the league. . . . See you all at the Brooklyn College game. . . .

Survey Shows Major Auto Violators

Although only 17.5 per cent of the licenses among drivers are held by people of University age, they have been responsible for 36 per cent of speed violations, stated the Lumbermans Mutual Casualty Company, in a recent survey.

Drivers in the 18-24 age group have been involved in almost twice as many accidents as the average of the other age groups.

Violations have been reported for 31 per cent of drivers in fatal accidents; 17 per cent were exceeding stated speed limits, 14 per cent were exceeding safe speeds although staying within speed laws.

The study also shows that 50 per cent of the total violators were under 30 years of age.

A recent study by two University of Nebraska professors found that drivers in the 16-25 age group had the least regard for speed laws.

In five per cent of all fatal accidents, the vehicles were in unsafe condition. Of these unsafe vehicles; 40 per cent had unsafe brakes, 20 per cent had tire defects, and 20 per cent had bad or burned out lights.

Drive carefully, if you don't, you may wind up as a statistic.

Along Park Place

with RON MILLER

The rumble of Thunder has subsided, the last of the turkey soup has been slurped from Thanksgiving's "bird day", and now everyone is awaiting the arrival of the chubby little fella' who will probably make his rounds in a corvette this year. What does everybody want for Christmas this year? Let's take a guess: Joan Antonello received her gift earlier than most this year by being crowned Snowflake Queen '59, (Theta Epsilon does it again), all she wants now are slimmer ankles; . . . the math 203 class, under the "X".

pert leadership of the individual "lings" and "propops", Mr. Tolmie, all want a sudden "A-ha" phenomenon to take place very shortly. . . . A certain pert little miss named Mary in the activities office would like a series of locks on the door of the office to keep out APP writers. . . . the misses Merenoff, Mintz, and Wax are aspiring to work for Harry Neigher. . . . The Alumni Hall Board of Directors: That building that they've been hearing so much about. . . . Miss Millie Quiros; a glass of wine, an Alumni Hall education and a flour sack. . . . Dr. Whittaker of the psychology Department: a record being published by John "payola" Metcalf, "The Sweetheart of Sigmund Freud". . . .

The Student Council: Members who will do something besides take up space, miss meetings, and throw stones at that nasty word, "WORK". . . . The Campus Library: Pinkerton's midgets in the stacks. . . . The UB basketball team, (forget it, they don't need anything besides the great support that they've been getting). . . . The "CLUB": a switch from Knickerbocker to Ballantine's. . . . The soccer team: a testimonial dinner sponsored entirely by the University for a job well done. . . . The residents of Sheraton "Earle": roller skates. . . . Messers Bill Darrugh, Ron MacCarthy, John Aslan, Frank Forni and your's truly: a truce, (to include Al Palumbo the instigator). . . . Mrs. Hotchkiss: more insurance. . . . The sisters of Beta Gamma: new Greek Letters to read Alpha Delta Delta, (a-la-Dragonette). . . . Dick Wright and Bob Thomas: a way to see the light. . . . Andre Guilbert: a mopping of the brow after last week's "almost". . . . The Seawall: a screen test for Doberman's double "Nish", (think of the publicity). . . . The psych 315 class: a course in German. . . . Bert and Lynn: Peace. . . . Micky and Denny: (likewise). . . . The entire UB campus: a terrific vacation and good sources for those term papers. . . . Finally the writer of these lines: Next September.

The brothers of POC have been quite consistent in letting us know what's going on in their circles lately; let's have a look: Those lessons in Yoga taken by Joe "I was in the Navy TOO" Gavin have proven helpful, for while at home during the last week's vacation he started and completed a term paper. Joe is also completing a novel to be entitled, "Wonders Never Cease To Happen"; good luck Joe, we sincerely hope that it will be as good as your last two publications, "Time Spent In An Iron Lung," and "Don't Eat The Raisins." Marty Rigor wouldn't win a posture contest but he played a swell football game. . . . Past proxy Dave Marks is waiting for the flowers to BLOSSOM. . . . Joel Hand now Veep in POC due to Mel Klien's unfortunate resignation.

Pinning news has been absent from these pages for some time, but we'll try to make up for it today. Arlene Weiss is the owner of en Glassman's AZO pin. Arlene is a senior in Elementary Ed, and Ben is a Rutgers grad lives in Paterson, N. J. It sure is a long ride between Paterson and Hartford; right kids?

Judi Schneider, a senior majoring in Elementary Ed, and resident of Flushing N.Y. is among the ranks of the engaged. The main cause of this is Lou and of Paterson, N.J. Congratulations and good luck, Judi.
